A multiplicative graph $Q$ is a graph together with an associative morphism of its cartesian square $Q \Box Q$ to $Q$. There are several examples of multiplicative graphs that arise in knot theory; the category of multiplicative graphs whose vertices form a group is equivalent to the category of augmented racks. We show how to construct rack homology via multiplicative graphs and define several Hopf algebras associated with a multiplicative graph.