
JON YARD, University of Waterloo and Perimeter Institute

Topological phases and arithmetic

In this talk, I will present various applications of arithmetic to the study of topological phases. I will first discuss joint work illustrating the role played by different kinds of equivalence classes of quadratic forms in the classification of abelian topological phases. I will also present examples of arithmetic groups arising from images of braid group representations associated to certain nonabelian phases.