
PAUL GAUTHIER, Université de Montréal
Approximation by random holomorphic functions

Brown and Schreiber introduced a point of view which could lead to many questions on "random complex analysis." Andrus and Brown obtained stochastic versions of classical theorems in approximation in a single variable. We propose a similar investigation in several complex variables.